In the Huddle

By Steve Snapp

It only seems logical that a football coach who played for Woody Hayes and later worked for Bo Schembechler would all but disregard the pass and build his offense around a strong running game. But that hasn't been the case this year at Purdue, where first-year coach Jim Young has the Boilermakers boasting one of the most potent aerial attacks in all of college football.

Coming into today's game with Ohio State, the Boilermakers have already put the ball in the air an unbelievable 170 times and have 96 completions and 1,313 yards to show for their efforts. All three figures rank high in the national statistics released this past Wednesday.

"The ability to pass the ball is very important," explains Young, a member of the Buckeyes' 1954 national championship team and an assistant to Bo for nine years, first at Miami of Ohio and later at Michigan. "If you can't pass, you are going to get beat."

To do his passing, Young has come up with Mark Herrmann, a 6-5, 180-pound freshman dandy, who has burst onto the college grid scene in semi-spectacular fashion.

In four games to date, Herrmann has thrown 156 times, completing 89 of those tosses for 1,224 yards and eight touchdowns. The Carmel, Indiana rookie leads the nation in passing yardage and is a strong second in completions per game. He is also the Big Ten leader in total offense and is threatening to make a shambles of existing Purdue and conference passing records.

"Mark has really caught on with the Purdue fans," reports Paul Jensen, the Boilermakers' assistant sports information director. "He is exciting to watch and has tremendous poise for a freshman."

Herrmann's poise will be put to a stiff test today against a veteran OSU defense that last week set a school record with seven interceptions against another frosh, Mike Ford of SMU.

"That was one of our better defensive efforts," said Buckeye Coach Woody Hayes. "We kept the pressure on up front and when he (Ford) tried to throw it, we were there to catch it."

Sophomore Mike Guess had three interceptions for the Buckeyes, tying an OSU single game mark. Kelton Dansler, Eddie Beamon, Dave Adkins and Ray Griffin also had thefts.

"We will need that kind of an effort again this week," decided George Hill, the Buckeyes' defensive coordinator. "Purdue has one of the best passing games we have faced in some time and Herrmann can really put the ball on the money."

SCORING LEADER — Freshman fullback Joel Payton is the Buckeyes' leading scorer with four touchdowns. Payton, a former all-stater from Mentor, had his best day as a collegian last week at SMU, rushing for 91 yards and two touchdowns.

While the Buckeye coaches have spent time recently working on ways to halt the Purdue quarterback, the Boilermaker coaching staff has been equally concerned about putting the wraps on OSU signal caller Rod Gerald.

"Gerald is one of the most dangerous athletes in the country," warns Young. "He is especially dangerous when he goes back to pass, because he usually winds up running. And whenever he runs, he is a threat to go all the way."

"He is just a superb quarterback."

No argument from Woody on that point.

"Rod is developing into one of the finest quarterbacks we have ever had at Ohio State," declared Hayes of his junior standout. "But he is not just a runner, he can pass the ball, too. We just don't throw as often as some people do because I feel you win by running the football."

A classic match up between passer and runner, student and teacher. It should be fun to watch.

Football flicks tops in 1930s

The 1930s didn't make much sense. A lot of people who graduated from college went into the same business: selling apples on street corners. This was a dangerous line of work because apple sellers never knew when they might be hit by someone throwing himself out a window. Usually a classmate.

They say you can tell a great deal about a country by looking at its movies. This country, in the 1930s, produced a film about an ape who gave up a career in show business to climb skyscrapers.

The depression and the movies didn't ignore football. Columbia, an Ivy League team, won the Rose Bowl in 1934. Columbia, in fact, has never lost a Rose Bowl. Woody Hayes would find that depressing.

The movies about football should not be confused with the movies about apes. The apes didn't wear helmets.

"Pigskin Parade," made in 1936, was fairly typical. Stu Erwin was a farmer's son, a whiz in the local run, kick and cantaloupe-throwing competition. A college scout saw him heave a melon and decided he could toss a football, too. Soon, Stu had a college sweetie. Stu also had a little sister. She sang. Her name was Judy Garland. Stu's girl was Betty Grable. Why would you bother watching Stu?

The Marx Brothers made a football film back then called "Horse Feathers." The big game was between the universities of Darwin and Huxley. Groucho was the coach—something else to depress Woody Hayes. Chico called the signals like this: "Max and Minnie, Moe and Mendy, now we go around left endy."

"College Coach," a 1933 gem, gave us Pat O'Brien as a ruthless coach with Dick Powell as his star player. The next stop on O'Brien's coaching career was Notre Dame, for "Knut Rockne—All American." No article on football films in the 1930s would be complete without mentioning this 1940 movie about a 1920s coach.

There is one football masterpiece from the decade that hasn't been shown since its theatrical release in 1935. "Tackle My Heart," on the surface, followed the standard football formula.

The college president was a woman who had no love for football because her first husband, a balloon "descentionist," ran off with three cheerleaders and a bottle of Vitamin E.

The brightest boy in school hates sports and spends his time between classes attending other classes. His girl friend is a frump. Unfortunately, the school is about to close down unless the alumni can convert their apples into dollars.

What can be done? The bright boy sees the light when the football coach puts a gun to his ribs. He decides to join the team and, quicker than you can say NCAA, the school begins winning. Turns out our hero was an athlete when he was younger but gave it all up when his mother, a beauty queen, was killed in a float collision.

He scores the winning touchdown in the big game, beating Crushon U., and the school is saved. His girl friend, the frump, has taught herself to perform a cartwheel. In one of Hollywood's memorable sequences she performs cartwheels the length of the stadium while the pep band plays the film's love song, "Next Time I'll Wear Slacks."

A sequel, "Tackle My Nose," was a disaster. As was "Tackle of Bagdad." But surely the original deserves to return. The movie, that is not the '30s.

HEAD COACH WOODY HAYES

Woody Hayes and football have become synonymous during the past three decades. So, too, have Woody Hayes and winning.

Hayes, now in his 27th year at Ohio State, is the fourth winningest coach in college football history with 222 victories in 31 seasons. Only Alonzo Stagg, Pop Warner and Bear Bryant have more triumphs than the 64-year old Hayes, who spent three years at Denison and two at Miami (O.) before taking over the Buckeyes in 1951.

Entering the 1977 season, Hayes had won 189, lost 54 and tied 9 at OSU for a winning percentage of .768. In Big Ten play he owns a 139-34-7 record and has captured 12 conference championships. No other conference school comes close to either figure during the past quarter of a century.

Currently Hayes, who has coached longer in the Big Ten than anyone except Stagg (41 years at Chicago) and Bob Zuppke (29 years at Illinois), is working on a string of five consecutive conference titles and an unprecedented five straight bowl appearances by the Buckeyes. A Big Ten crown in 1977 would make Ohio State the first team in conference history to win six consecutive championships.

Overall, Hayes, a native of New Philadelphia, O., has taken nine OSU teams to bowl games and produced national championship squads in 1954, 1957 and 1968. His 1969 squad, which posted a 9-1 mark is generally regarded as one of the finest college football teams ever assembled.

Since Woody has coached at Ohio State, the Buckeye school has led the nation in average home game attendance for 21 of the last 26 years and finished second the other five seasons. At the end of 1976, Ohio State owned a string of 50 consecutive home sellouts.

Hayes has spent his entire coaching career within the state of Ohio. After graduating from Denison in 1935, he accepted a position as assistant football coach at Mingo Junction where he remained until being named head coach at New Philadelphia in 1938. He won 19, lost 10 and tied one at New Philly before joining the Navy in 1941.

Following his discharge, Hayes returned to Denison to embark upon a collegiate coaching career. In the time since, he has become one of the most respected and most successful coaches the profession has ever known.

BACK OF THE WEEK

ROD GERALD was named Back of the Week for the second consecutive week after a dazzling performance at SMU, where he electrified his hometown Dallas fans with a 33-yard touchdown run and completed five of eight passes for 88 yards. Gerald is the Buckeyes second leading rusher with 171 yards in 47 attempts, a 3.6 average, and his completed 16 of 28 passes for 243 yards.

BUCK OF THE WEEK

MIKE GUESS was an easy choice for the award after snaring three interceptions against SMU to tie an Ohio State single game record. Guess began the year at the openside halfback spot, but showed his versatility by shifting to safety for two games when Ray Griffin moved to offense. Which does he prefer? He doesn't. "Just so I am in there, that's all I care about," he explains.

Big Ten Basketball Outlook Bright

There's a lot of excitement in Big Ten basketball camps this fall. That's because the conference as a whole dominated the high school recruiting scene this past spring, landing four of the nation's top seven prepsters.

No where is the excitement greater than here in Columbus, where first-year coach Eldon Miller signed six of the top 100 high school boys, giving the Buckeyes the No. 1 class of recruits in the country according to many basketball experts.

Joining the OSU ranks are 6-11 Herbie Williams, a consensus all-American from Columbus Marion Franklin; 6-9 Jim Smith, a first team all-Ohioan from Cleveland East Tech; 6-5 Marquis Miller, the Class AA Player of the Year last year at Columbus St. Charles; 6-4 Kenny Page, another consensus all-American from New York City; 6-2 Carter Scott, an all-stater from Barberton; and 5-10 Todd Penn, a two-time all-Ohio pick from Columbus Linden McKinley.

"We recruited last year with the idea that we needed help at every position," said Miller, whose team opens practice Oct. 15. "We got that help in this class. It goes without saying that we will be better offensively, better defensively and stronger on the boards this year. But we will also be awfully young and will have to fight inexperience all year."

To help offset that inexperience, Miller has eight returning lettermen, including leading scorer Kelvin Ransey (13.1 ppg), leading field goal shooter Terry Burris (.490) and leading rebounder Jim Ellinghausen (6.4 rebounds per game).

Other returning lettermen are Fred Poole, Mark Hetz, Tony Hall, Mike Cline and Rick Smith, all of whom played extensively last year.

"We are excited about this season, but we know that we have a lot of work to do," noted Miller. "We do think, however, that the program is moving in the right direction."

How do the other Big Ten teams shape up? "Everybody is a title contender now," says Johnny Orr, coach of defending champ Michigan. "I've never seen so much talent in the league."

Here is a look at what Big Ten teams will offer this year.

ILLINOIS — Lou Henson in his third year convinced three of top four players in Illinois to remain in the state, including Eddie Johnson, 6-6 forward from Chicago and Mark Smith, 6-5 swingman from Peoria. They join veterans Levi Cobb, Audie Mathews and Adams, a 14.3 scorer.

INDIANA — Bobby Knight has another solid group of freshmen, led by 6-9 Ray Tolbert, to join such proven players as Mike Woodson (league's second best scorer, 22.0), Butch Carter and Jim Wiseman at guards, plus forwards Scott Eells and Glen Grunwald.

IOWA — Lute Olsen in fourth year with two straight first division berths has Lester (15.3 average) returning and good prospects in freshmen Greg Boyle from Mundelein, Ill., and 6-5 Vince Brookins from Cleveland. Everybody's back except Sky King.

MICHIGAN — The Wolverines have made four straight NCAA appearances and center Phil Hubbard (19.4 points, 12.5 rebounds), guard Dave Baxter, forward Tom Staton are back. John Johnson and Mike McGee, both 6-4, are the top newcomers.

MICHIGAN STATE — Jud Heathcote in his second year brought in superstar Earvin Johnson, 6-7 Jay Vincent and 7-foot Swedish import Sten Feldreich to join Greg Kelser in a powerful front line. Guard Bob Chapman should get help from JC transfer Len Williams 32.6 average as Chicago prep star.

MINNESOTA — Jim Dutcher's third year could be his best. Front line of 6-10 Michael Thompson (league's top scorer, 22.8), a 7-foot soph Kevin McHale, 6-11 Dave Winey is overpowering. Osborne Lockert (14.7 points) returns at guard, while 6-9 Brian Peterson and transfer James Jackson are solid newcomers.

NORTHWESTERN — Tex Winter in his fifth season is still occupied with rebuilding, though 6-8 Bob Svete, 6-9 Bob Klaas and 6-9½ Mike Campbell all return. Guards John Egan from Peoria and Rod Roberson from Elkhart, Ind., and 6-7 Lyle Dobbins from Chicago could help the 'Cats.

PURDUE — Fred Schaus has Walter Jordan, Wayne Walls at forward and guard Eugene Parker, all three-year starters, last year's third guard, Jerry Sighting, and the best frosh center in the league, Jo Berry Carroll, returning. Drake Morris heads up a fine freshmen group.

WISCONSIN — Bill Cofield in his second year found gold in the East — Wes Matthews who could be one of the league's most exciting players, and 6-9 Larry Petty, who'll join 6-8 Jim Gregory and 6-8 Joe Chernelich in the front line and 6-4 guard Arnold Gaines. All three of these vets were among the league's top 30 scorers last year.

When Indiana and Michigan met in the NCAA finals two years ago, it was just an indication that the Big Ten was becoming the dominant conference in college basketball. The evidence has been expanded.

Meet the OSU Board of Trustees

John D. Jacob

John D. Jacob of Worthington was appointed to the Ohio State University's nine-member Board of Trustees on June 6, 1975, for a nine-year term.

A dentist specializing in orthodontics, Dr. Jacob graduated from the Ohio State University College of Dentistry in 1963. He completed a one-year internship at Eastman Dental Center in Rochester, N.Y., then returned to Ohio State and received a master of science degree in 1966.

Dr. Jacob has been a College of Dentistry faculty member, serving as instructor from 1967 to 1970 and assistant professor from 1970 until his appointment as a trustee. He is licensed to practice in Ohio and Florida and is a member of many professional societies. For two years he has been secretary-treasurer of the Columbus Society of Dentistry for Children.

He also is active in the Worthington Jaycees, serving as director, vice president, president and chairman of the board. He was chairman of the Conductor's Committee for the Columbus Symphony Orchestra and was on the orchestra's board of trustees from 1969 to 1971.

Dr. Jacob is involved in Rotary International as a charter member of the Dublin-Worthington Rotary Club. Active in many other Columbus and Worthington civic associations, he also is a life member of the Ohio State Alumni Association. He was honored by the Columbus Jaycees as one of the Ten Outstanding Young Men of 1970 and received the Distinguished Service Award as the Outstanding Young Man of Worthington from the Worthington Jaycees in 1971. He is a J.C.I. senator and has won the Distinguished Service Award of the Columbus Dental Society.

Dr. Jacob is married and has two children.

Plan To See Ohio State Hockey

The Ohio State hockey team finished a solid third in last year's Central Collegiate Hockey Association race. With 16 lettermen returning from that team, plus eleven outstanding freshmen coming in, third-year coach Jerry Welsh figures this could be the YEAR OF THE BUCKEYE.

So don't miss the Buckeye skaters in action this year. The season opens Oct. 21 when York University of Canada, coached by former OSU mentor Dave Chambers, comes to town for a two game set. Also on the home non-league schedule are meetings with Providence, Vermont and the University of Pennsylvania. The CCHA home slate includes dates with Northern Michigan, Western Michigan, Lake Superior, St. Louis and Bowling Green.

TICKETS ON SALE NOW AT THE ST. JOHN ARENA TICKET OFFICE WITH A REDUCED RATE FOR PRE-SEASON PURCHASERS.

The Schedule:

October 21-22	York University
October 29	Alumni
November 4-5	Providence
November 11-12	Northern Michigan
November 18-19	Vermont
November 27-28	Pennsylvania
December 2-3	St. Louis
January 20-21	Western Michigan
February 3-4	Lake Superior
February 10-11	Bowling Green

The WOSU mobile unit is used for televising Buckeye home football games. Audio and video cables travel to the cameras at the top of the stadium. Signals received are transmitted to the Telcom center for broadcast via the microwave unit on top of the van.

Brought to You by WOSU . . .

"Wish I could see that run on instant replay!"

If that is your comment anytime during today's game, don't forget that you can in fact re-play the entire game tonight at 10:30. Just tune in Channel 34, WOSU-TV, in central Ohio, or another public television station elsewhere in the state.

The OSU Telecommunications (Telcom) Center, directed by Dr. Elizabeth Young, provides an experienced crew to produce the delayed broadcasts of all home games. Marv Homan, director of publicity for the Ohio State athletic department, and Kaye Kessler, a Columbus sportswriter, describe the action for the broadcasts, which are made possible by grants from the Grange Mutual Insurance Companies and City Loan and Savings, channeled to the Friends of WOSU by the OSU Development Fund.

Telcom broadcast technician Jeff Campbell is part of the crew that makes televised games possible. His camera position at the top of Ohio Stadium is supplemented by a camera ground crew on the field which shoots the action from the sidelines.

Director of each game's coverage is Sam Torre. Executive producer is Tom Roper, general manager of television for Telcom.

The general manager of radio at Telcom — which includes WOSU-AM at 820 on the dial and FM at 89.7 — is Don Davis. Davis moved into that position this year after serving as WOSU news director since 1963.

Succeeding Davis as news director is David Feingold, who came to Columbus from public station WOI, Iowa State University, Ames. He already has made some modifications in the news service, which is known as one of the most detailed and accurate radio news offerings in the state. And he is making new reporter assignments and setting up special units to further upgrade the service.

The Monday through Friday schedule for news on WOSU-AM now goes like this: morning edition, 7:30 to 9 a.m.; mid-day edition, noon to 12:30 p.m.; final edition, 4:30 to 5:30 p.m., followed by the news magazine All Things Considered from National Public Radio.

The weekend schedule for AM and FM includes 15 minutes of news at 8:45 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. on Saturday and at 1:30 p.m. on Sunday, plus five minutes at 6 p.m. both days.

Five minutes of each 30-minute news segment is allotted for sports coverage, most of it handled by veteran reporter Jim Waltermire, who attempts to personally interview prominent sports figures at OSU and throughout the Columbus area.

Friends of WOSU provides much of the support for WOSU radio and TV. Friends is a community group of more than 9,000 members who pay minimum dues of $15 ($5 for students and senior citizens). Many friends also volunteer their time for special activities and fundraising weekends.

For more information about the Telcom Center, or to find out how to become a Friend of WOSU, just contact the Telcom Center, located in the Fawcett Center for Tomorrow at 2400 Olentangy River Rd. The phone number is 421-2540.

"Some Ohio State alumni are farther from the 50-yard line than others."

But all have that same intense pride in Alma Mater that marks Buckeyes everywhere. That's why The Ohio State University Alumni Association—the official alumni organization—has more than 80,000 dues-paying members—and why it is the largest by far of all dues-paying alumni organizations in the world! Buckeyes grow everywhere—and the Alumni Association serves Buckeyes everywhere. Whether they're at the game today—or cheering at some distant spot, Ohio State's organized alumni have one overriding purpose: to help our Ohio State University.

SEE WHAT'S NEW TODAY IN A CHEVROLET.

The Third Generation Monte Carlo. A new dimension in affordable luxury.

With immense pride, we present a trim and timely new edition of Chevrolet's personal luxury car: The Third Generation Monte Carlo.

Although thoroughly redesigned, today's Monte Carlo retains the unique personality of Monte Carlos past.

You see it dramatically reflected in the stately stance and sculptured sides.

The new interior is a virtual "Driver's Suite"

—with sumptuous cloths and carpets, tall windows, an impressive new instrument panel, and special Monte Carlo "touches" throughout.

Available enhancements include a new roof with removable tinted-glass panels.

The Third Generation Monte Carlo.

Drive it soon.

We think you'll be impressed.

COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY OF OHIO, COLUMBUS, OHIO

You won't believe the sound. You'll never believe the price.

Magnavox Modulares. They're packed with everything that goes into super stereo—except a high price tag. For example, the 1725 has:

- a solid-state stereo FM/AM tuner-amplifier to pull in those weak stations you'd like to listen to, and to keep them from drifting;

- a 3-speed automatic turntable with diamond stylus and smoked plastic dustcover;

- a built-in 8 track recorder/player;

- a pair of newly-designed 2-way tuned-vent speakers to give you rich, deep bass with astonishing efficiency;

- a price that's surprisingly low for such high performance.

Why not stop by your Magnavox dealer and tell him you'd like big sound at a small price. He'll know just what to show you.

Add leadership to your college schedule.

College military science courses are courses in leadership development. They offer you management experiences which will benefit you in any career, civilian or military.

You can take the first courses as a freshman or sophomore without obligation. Advanced courses, in your junior and senior years, lead you to a position of responsibility as an officer in the active Army or Reserves.

As an Army ROTC student, you'll also have the opportunity to compete for 3 and 2-year full tuition scholarships. And you'll earn nearly $2000 during your last 2 years of college.

Don't wait until after college to get practical management experience. Add leadership to your class schedule now.

Passing With A Capital 'P'

The "P" in Purdue again stands for pass, and yes, ladies and gentlemen, spell it with a capital "P"!

A new head coach (Jim Young), a new offensive philosophy (throw, throw, throw), a gifted 6-5 freshman quarterback (Mark Herrmann), and a stable of fine receivers, led by senior split end Reggie Arnold and sophomore flanker Raymond Smith, have rekindled fond memories of days past for Boilermaker fans.

While the talents of Otis Armstrong, Mike Pruitt, Scott Dierking, and present Purdue fullback John Skibinski dictated a run-oriented offense in West Lafayette the past few years, Young's new regime is bringing back the Purdue passing hey days of Len Dawson, Bob Griese, and Mike Phipps at quarterback, days when they threw to the likes of Jim Beirne, Leroy Keyes, Darryl Stingley, and Larry Burton.

One year ago during Purdue's 24-3 loss to OSU here in Columbus, the Boilers completed only eight passes for 91 yards. This season, that is barely a first half's work for Young's aerial barrage. Make that one quarter's work! Three weeks ago against Ohio University, Herrmann accumulated 172 yards via the air waves by the end of the first quarter.

And while much attention has been focused on the poised, golden right arm of young Mr. Herrmann, his ability has given new life to Arnold and Smith.

"I thought I was going to leave Purdue rated a mediocre receiver," explains Arnold who has opened many an eye through the first four weeks of the season. "I hope I've shown people I'm a lot more than that!"

And that he is! Purdue's leading receiver last season with 16 receptions, it took the Bartow, Splint End Reggie Arnold leaves no doubt the pass reception was good.

Flanker Raymond Smith conferring with head coach Jim Young on the sideline.

Florida native just three games to better that mark this fall, with more than one being of the spectacular variety.

"Football is more fun now," he adds. "I feel like I'm contributing more with all the passes we're throwing. I love this! Just catching the football is a lot of fun, and I love the challenge of the tough ones."

The speedy Smith (a consistent 4.4 in the 40-yard dash) echoes Arnold's unbridled enthusiasm: "We've put a lot of emphasis and work into our passing game. Saturday is the fun part! Herrmann's putting the ball right on the money; there's nothing left to do but catch it. It is a great feeling going onto the field knowing the ball will be thrown as much as we do. I love to run out there and catch the ball."

The aerial-minded Young is quick to praise the two chief benefactors of Herrmann's "Mark" sman-ship: "When you throw as much as we do, it is a luxury to have two sure-handed receivers like Arnold and Smith. They have worked hard at it and have been very instrumental in our decision to rely so heavily on the pass.

"Beginning last spring, they have caught many, many passes. They remained after practice and developed their abilities to a maximum. They have improved and now have great concentration.

"We had some fine receivers at Arizona (where Young was head coach the past four years), but surely none finer than these two. They complement each other very well and have that sense of field position, sideline, and first down. They look forward to catching the ball and maybe that's why they're more effective."

Skeptics point out a passing team has never consistently contended for the Big Ten championship, pointing out the successes of run-oriented Ohio State and Michigan.

Despite Jim Young's past associations with those two philosophies and programs — as a player at Ohio State and as an assistant coach at Michigan — he doesn't necessarily agree with that logic. Reggie Arnold and Raymond Smith are two of the very biggest reasons why!

The William Oxley Thompson Main Library at the west end of the Oval is a landmark on the Columbus campus. A recent addition to the building has added needed space and made using the library more convenient.

THE OSU LIBRARIES

With 90,000 users and 3,200,000 volumes, it's the 15th largest library system in the U.S. – and the heart of education at Ohio State

The Ohio State University Libraries is not a singular place — it is a pluralistic system of some 37 collection/service units on the Columbus campus, anchored by the William Oxley Thompson Main Library at the west end of the Oval.

From agriculture to zoology, from black studies to women's studies, from rare books to microforms, slides, tapes and video cassettes, from research facilities to undergraduate libraries, the university library system is one of the largest (15th in the United States at 3.2 million volumes) and technologically most modern in the world.

Want a book or periodical? Just pick up a telephone, dial 422-3900, tell the operator the author and/or title of what you need, and you will have a reply in seconds. Materials thus charged out can be mailed to students and faculty with on-campus addresses or held at the particular library for pickup at a later time.

The convenience of this telephone service is made possible by a computer-based system (with 75 terminals campus-wide) which has been serving Ohio State library users since 1970 and includes abbreviated forms of all titles in the libraries.

The computer system logs more than 6 million transactions per year and in the process automatically generates overdue notices, recalls charged-out items needed by others and alerts librarians to titles being used frequently. However, many students and faculty continue to use the traditional card catalog, which is still maintained as the full record of holdings, and which grows at the rate of one-half million cards per year.

The Department of History even has its own private terminal to facilitate access to retrospective resources, as well as to search some of the 100,000 new volumes added to the collections in a typical year.

The library's Mechanized Information Center (MIC) provides searches of numerous machine-readable data bases (covering a wide variety of subjects) to as many as 10,000 clients per year, ranging from freshmen to senior faculty. This year MIC, a truly advanced and innovative service, will furnish more than 3 million citations to relevant journal articles, reports and books.

This year patrons will charge out more than 2 million books, journals, microforms, maps, filmstrips and other audio-visual materials, in addition to making an undetermined amount of use of collections on site. Ohio State librarians answer about 180,000 reference questions each year in the course of teaching students, faculty and others how to work effectively and efficiently with an awesome tide of print and non-print materials.

With 90,000 active names in the user file, a typical day in the life of the library system includes 6,500 items charged out (150,000 volumes are in circulation at most given times) and an equal number returned for reshelfing.

Every day approximately 12,000 students and faculty use the University Libraries. You are welcome to use them too. After the game, stop in and visit the newly expanded and remodeled Main Library. While you're there, pick up an application for membership in Friends of the Libraries, an organization dedicated to recognition, support and use of this literally invaluable resource.

Friends' members are given a courtesy card with which to borrow materials; but the libraries' more than 3 million volume collection is open to anyone who has needs which cannot be legitimately met elsewhere and is available to any citizen who wants to use materials on site.

Library staffers such as Gail Herndon, above, are well-versed in working with the sophisticated computer-based system that helps keep the libraries running smoothly and quickly for the thousands who use library facilities each day.

During 1977, Ohio State University's national Center for Vocational Education has worked with 69 institutions and agencies in 35 states in the development and testing of vocational and career education materials.

Center a leader in vocational education

The Center for Vocational Education at Ohio State University is a national research and development organization. Its mission is to assist agencies, institutions and organizations in solving educational problems relating to individual career planning, preparation and progression.

Center staff identify and work toward solving important needs in vocational, technical and career education — preparing young people, kindergarten through adult, for careers that fit their interests and aptitudes and are realistic in terms of the labor market.

Presently, center staff are working with 65 state departments, 112 universities and colleges, 32 public school systems and more than 10,000 students in carrying out their mission.

Since January 1975, the center has had 115 foreign visitors representing 32 countries. In 1977, 42 persons representing 39 institutions and agencies visited the center on sabbatical leaves.

Founded in 1965, the center employs a multidisciplinary staff of 200 people including full-time educators, behavioral scientists, engineers, systems analysts and Ohio State graduate students.

Divisions of the center

In the research and development division, staff provide research activities and products, often in the form of instructional materials, for vocational-technical education. One program concerns developing strategies for eliminating sex bias and sex stereotyping in vocational education.

Another major program's goal is to increase the efficiency of teacher education programs and the competency of vocational teachers in the immediate future.

The special projects division includes research programs sponsored by local, private, state and federal agencies. One project involves developing procedures to identify jobs in which handicapped persons can realize their potentials.

In the personnel development division, staff work to solve personnel development problems in education, business, industry, government and other agencies. One such project is the training of apprenticeship instructors for the sheet metal industry.

Information and field services division staff help individuals and groups install and use educational programs and products developed at the center. This division includes three national information exchange systems which offer access to research results, program reports and evaluation studies.

In the evaluation division, staff help educational and other agencies design, obtain and interpret evaluative information. Evaluation of vocational needs has enabled local school districts to improve their programs.

Current activities

Currently, center staff are working on projects to increase the quality and quantity of vocational programs for elementary and secondary students, women, minorities, the handicapped, postsecondary students, international trade union members, the disadvantaged and persons in correctional institutions.

The center makes extensive use of advisory panels and consultants. Last year more than 402 from 35 states came to Ohio State University to assist in center programs.

The center, located at 1960 Kenny Rd., welcomes visitors at any time. Those interested in a visit can make arrangements through the center's executive director, Dr. Robert E. Taylor, by calling 486-3655.

At the end of this season, this team will be number one.

The Kodak All-America Team

It's one of the oldest and smallest teams in college football. It doesn't have a win-loss record. It doesn't set rushing records, and it has never scored a touchdown. Yet, at the end of the 1977 season, the Kodak All-America Team will be the number one team in college football.

What this team will have is the 22 very best players of the season. Twenty-two men who have earned the right to be called All-American. No amount of popularity or publicity can put a player on this team if he doesn't deserve to be there. It is a distinction which is earned with outstanding ability, sportsmanship and leadership. And these players have to prove themselves to the toughest coaches of all, the American Football Coaches Association.

The Kodak All-America Team is

The 1977 Kodak All-Americans
...watch for them.

KODAK SPORTS PROGRAM

the only team which represents the choice of the more than 2,000 college and university coaches who are the American Football Coaches Association. Their standards are exacting, for this is a team that for 88 years has included the greatest names in college football.

The 1977 Kodak All-America Team has yet to be selected. The field is large, for there are more than 12,000 players from which to choose. But when the season ends, a handful of men will have distinguished themselves, and earned the honor of being on the number one team in college football.
